stay safe around electric rail and respect the wires

The southern rail network (including the Tonsley line) is being electrified resulting in a more modern, environmentally-friendly and efficient train service.

Stay safe

Remember to always access stations and platforms using designated overpasses and pedestrian paths.

If you need to cross the tracks, only cross at level crossings and pedestrian crossings.

Never take shortcuts along or across the railway tracks.

Respect the wires

Treat overhead wires and fittings as live at all times, as you would power lines in suburban streets.

Please be responsible and safe when around electrified rail and when using electric trains.
